A WOMAN OF BUSINESS,

A Nebraska Widow Who Picked a Husband and Married Him.

We were camping alongside of an emigrant train in Nebraska, and just after supper a woman about forty years of age, who was smoking a pipe, came over to our fire, sized the crowd,up, and

"I've got sunthin' to say. I'm a plain-spoken woman. When Pve got a thing on mymind I don't beat around the brush."

We looked at her with curiosity and

We looked at her with curiosity and surprise, and sne leaned against the wheel of a wagen and continued:

"I've been a widder for three yerrs. Over that I've got a span of mewle, a good hoss, a new wagen filled with fousekeepin' stull, and I kin rake up ahout $30 in cash. I cum along with the party to take up a claim. I'm good-tempered, healthy, and can swing an axe or hold a plow with 'most anybody. As I said, I'm a plain-spoken woman. If there's a critter among you that wants to get married, let him stand up while I take a look at him."

She passed down the line and then returned half way, and said to a middleaged man of the name of Remington:
"You'll do, I reckon. There's a preacher in camp, and 'twon't take fifteen minutes to settle things. All of you as want to see the marrying come

We followed the couple, who were made man and wife inside of twenty minutes, and next morning as we passed the wagon on the road the woman looked out and bowed and said: "Sorry for the other ten of ye, but perhaps you'll meet up with the other train soon and strike luck."

WITH THE PAINT BRUSH.

How the House Woodwork May Be Made Fresh and Shining.

Now that it is time to lay the carpets again—don't do it. Instead buy a can of paint already prepared, move the furniture and, donning the dress which only your economy has prevented your throwing away, get down on your knees and paint your floor. Follow the knees and paint your floor. Follow the directions on your can as to the number of coats, and when the last one is dry, varnish the wood. Then make your carpet into a rug for the centre. You will be able to keep the room clean, for the first time. A monthly beating of the rug in the open air, triweekly sweepings and a damp cloth about the painted edge will keep the room immaculate.

If the woodwork done does not suit you and a grasping landlord declines to have it repainted, put on your daylaborer regimentals and do it yourself. First weat the doors and window-sills as clean as possible. Dirt cannot be successfully overcome with paint. Then lay on, as evenly as you can, a couple of coats of white paint, allowing a day for each coat to dry. Then finish with a couple of coats of the color you wish the wood to be—unless it should be white or cream, when one will be enough. The job will have been much more thoroughly done than if hirelings had undertaken it.

FASHIONS FOR THE WINTER.

What the Great Parisian Modistes Say Will Be the Go, Paris Cable.

The foremost modistes of Paris have forecast the winter fashions in women's dress. The features upon which they all dwell is that the materials will be richer and more costly, and the colors more gorgeous than for many seasons.

more gorgeous than for many seasons.

Louis XV's memory will be honored in robes, and Louis XIII's in hats. Worth easys it is rather early to speak, but he conveys general ideas.

"Sleeves," he says, "will be very full but not made to stand up at the shoulders. Skirts will be full at the bettom and stiffened. Maroon, betterave (beet root) and other rich colors will be popular. Furs will be much used for trimming, especially sable."

The next two costume artists consulted committed themselves to paper. Doncet wrote: "For other than street dresses velvet will be the material most worn, and a very supple kind and of full width. The colors most in vogue will be green and morders (reddish brown) width. The colors most in vogue will be green and mordere (reddish brown) or marcon d'ore. Skirts will be short, full at the bottom, very flat, clinging on the hips and thickly padded. Sleeves will be very large, but falling on the shoulders. The tendency is to replace the jacket of otter skin with sable. For decollette dresses, corsages are less open, especially in the back. Colors will be much less subdued than in past seasons. Very magnificent effects will be obtained. Violet bodices and green skirts will be seen combined."

Felix recorded his forecast thus:

flat will remain in tayor, but to vary flat will remain in tayor, but to vary, the monotony in the fashion there is a slight draping of the hips, rising in a puff behind. This gives to the wearer a full curved appearance. Very Persian. Velvet will be supreme and fine fur will be used for trimmings. My mind dwells upon a creation of bottle-green velvet, bordered with black fox, surmounted by steel embroidery with chemisette of by steel embroidery with chemisette of maize-colored gauze. Close-fitting capes and capotes are to be worn. Louis XV style will predominate, especially for evening dress. We shall see visions of the court of Versailles. For some there are colors that look like those of Dresden china and for matronly women, dark velvets."

Virot said: "Louis XIII is the popular style hets."

lar style in hats. They are turned up at the sides and surmounted by feathers. Very large hats will be worn and feath-er, fur and lace will decorate them."

TWO KITCHEN TABLES.

How They Were Transformed Into Things of Worth and Beauty.

It was with two unpainted, pine kitchen tables that one woman accomplished wonders in a decorative line. They were not expensive-$1.25 covered her expenditure for them. Another $1 25 paid for two long, fancy brass

$1 25 paid for two long, fancy brass screws and four brass handles. And white enamel paint was cheap.

On the back of one table she firmly nailed two strong wooden bars, far enough apart to allow her to screw between them a mirror. Then she painted the table and the sticks, screwed in an old mirror with a gay, whitewood frame by means of her brass screws, put brass handles on the drawer, and proudly stated that she did not envy Louis Quinze his chamber adornments. The other table was also treated to a coat or two of white paint and was

The other table was also treated to a coat or two of white paint and was placed against the wall just beneath a set of home-made white book shelves. All obliging carpenter made a small set of pigeon-holes to fit on the back of the table beneath the books, and this was also painted white. A big white blotter in a red leather case, a red penholder, red notebooks, red photograph frame, red-covered hand blotter and a big china ink well, painted red by the clever woman's own hand, made the desk as dainty and attractive as possible.

Easy Brenkfasts.

If only women would make their If only women would make their early morning housework light, the gain in health and temper to their families would be inestimable. For a woman who does not keep a girl to bake rolls, stew potatoes broil steak and do all the other things which are involved in "getting breakfast" is folly. In the first place the labor of making the fire processary to cook these things is no first place the labor of making the fire necessary to cook these things is no light labor. By the time she sits down to breakfast she is already worn out with her tasks, while her husband is just getting ready for his.

Bread that is invariably good may be bought from a baker. Fruit that serves, as a delictious sort of tonic and appetizer also needs no preparation. On a gas stove, which may be lighted in an instant, oatmeal eyes and coffee may be Water.

The human body is constantly undergoing tissue change. Worn out parti-cles are cast aside and eliminated from cles are cast aside and eliminated from the system, while the new are ever being formed, from the inception of life to its close.

Water has the power of increasing these tissue changes, which multiplies the waste products, but at the same time they are renewed by its agency, giving rise to farcelased appetite, which in turn provides fresh nutriment. Persons but little accustomed to drinking water are liable to have the waste products formed faster than they are removed. Any obstruction to the free working of natural laws at once firmly seated, requires both time and money seated, requires both time and money to cure.

People accustomed to rise in the morning weak and languid will find the cause in the imperfect secretion of wastes, which many times may be rem-edied by drinking a full tumbler of wa-ter before retiring. This very materi-ally assists in the process during the night, and leaves the tissues fresh and strong, ready for the active work of the strong, ready for the active work of the Thousands of little dish-mops are sold Thousands of little dish-mops are sold in New York every day. They are cheap, thirteen cents, and very helpful for washing pitchers, jugs, vase forms and common wares that are not likely to be injured under a stream of hot water. The mop is nothing more than a round stick about the length and thickness of a poker, with a taft of candle wick on one end. Fine china requires delicate handling, but Pekin and queensware can be mopped and dried queensware can be mopped and dried without wetting the hands.

Appeal of Baltimore Business Men. WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 4 .- A delegation of about eighty business men from Baltimore called upon Senator Gorman Ealtimore called upon Senator Gorman at the capitol to-day and presented memorials and addresses urging the speedy repeal of the Sherman act. Mr. Gorman replying said that under tha rules of the senate there was no way to hasten action, unless it could be done by bringing home influence to hear upon the opponents of the repeal bill from the southern states. He said that closure was impossible, and that continuous session would be a great hardship upon the older senators. He would not undertake to name a time when a vote could be reached, and said when a vote could be reached, and said it would be very difficult to reach a vote at all unless a compromise recognizing silver could be agreed upon.

crossed by no mountain chains to intercopt or retard the velocity of air current. The extent of this country is equaled by none on earth. Cold air being heavier to the square inch than warm air, the cold air, when coming in contact with a warm current from the south, always predominates forcing the warm air into the upper currents. The cause of the cyclone, says the Minneapolis Tribune, is the meeting of a head wind from the north with a head wind from the south. They meet like two vast armies of men. The pressure at the point of meeting is so great that the air, by compression, becomes heavier to the square inch than wood or the human body; hence either one will float in water—it floats because it is lighter to the square inch than water. Place water in an ordinary wash-bowl and remove the plug, and it will be observed that in passing out the water ferms a circular reaction. Air, being a liquid, does the same in passing either upward or downward; hence the funnel shaped spout of the cyclone center. When two immense bodies of air coming from different directions meet the only egress is upward and sideways, and in passing upward it forms the funnel, the same as water passing out of a wash-bowl downward. The theory that a cyclone forms a vacuum is absurd. Withdraw air from a glass jar with an air pump, and a feather within the vacuum formed will drop with the same velocity as lead, or, on the other hand, you can compress air until it is heavier to the square inch than wood, in which case wood will float in the air. The lifting power of a cyclone is caused, first, by the compression or density of the air, second, by its velocity. Combining the power of density with that of velocity, which occurs at the center or funnel, no power can resist it. The feeling of suffocation or cept or retard the velocity of air cur rent. The extent of this country is with that of velocity, which occurs at the center or lunnel, no power can resist it. The feeling of suffocation or difficulty in breathing when near the-track of a cyclone is caused from the compression of the air.

An interesting exhibit at the National Museum shows the chemical ingredients which go to make the average man, weighing 154 pounds. His body also holds fifteen pounds of hydrogen, which under the same conditions would occuunder the same conditions would occupy somewhat more than two such rooms as that described. To those must be added three pounds and thirteen ounces of nitrogen. The carbon in the corpus of the individual referred to is represented by a foot cube of coal.

It ought to be a diamond of the same size, because the stone is pure carbon, but the National Museum has not such a one in its possession. A row of bottles contain the other elements going to make up the man. These are four ounces of chlorine, three and a quarter ounces of florine, eight and a quarter ounces of florine, eight ounces of phosphorus, three and a half ounces of brimstone, two and a half ounces of sodium, two and a half ounces of potassium, one-tenth of an ounce of of potassium, one-tenth of an ounce of iron, two ounces of magnesium and three pounds and thirteen ounces of calcium, a Calcium, at present market rates, is worth $300 an ounce, so that the amount of it contained in one human body has a money value of $18,300. Few of our fellow citizens realize that they are worth so much intrinsically.
